Different Types of Honey

Our single-origin honey is 100% pure & natural from the eucalypt and ground flora found in the forests of Australia. The tree, bush or crop species and its flowers determine the type of honey, with its flavour coming from that flower species.

Blending different origins can merge the honey's flavour and characteristics. Some kinds of honey are pleasant tasting while others have unpleasant taste and smell. Some other origins have a poor reputation for quality, mixing with sugar syrups.

That is why we are of a single origin.

About Ginger (Latin name Zingerber)

We use premium 100% natural ginger grown in Queensland, Australia.

Australia has the highest quality ginger in the world. Ginger is considered a natural medicine in the Far East and Asian worlds, sought after by spice traders as one of the most important spices.

Ginger above ground, has lush green leaves growing to about one metre tall while below ground, is the rhizome, that is the spice.
